The intent of Ready, Set, Go! training is to increase the civilian community’s understanding of the unique issues faced by military families, and to engage participants in building local community networks to provide support for military children and youth.

RSG! community trainings are designed to help audiences understand military culture, the deployment cycle, unique challenges facing military families and fostering resiliency in military youth. Educators, counselors, youth-serving staff and civic groups may find RSG! training especially beneficial.